Mobile Computing
Practical sheet # 4
Using an external service

1. Using the translation service described in http://www.frengly.com/api design and implement an Android application allowing the user to specify a sentence in English and to translate it to another language.

   The service call must be done in a thread different from the UI thread.